Case No. 13-10814-A-11

FL.Invest.USA Inc.,

DC No. DMG-2

Debtor.

MEMORANDUM DECISION REGARDING MOTION
TO DISMISS CHAPTER 11 CASE

1 A Chapter 11 case may be dismissed for lack of good faith. Six 2 years ago, the Nemnis paid $2.4 million to the debtor for stock and 3 oil royalties. After the debtor failed to perform, the Nemnis
4 obtained judgments against the debtor, which remain unsatisfied. Two 5 days after a receiver was appointed, the debtor filed its petition.
6 Excluding insiders and the debtor's attorneys, the Nemnis are the only 7 creditors. Was the petition filed in good faith?

8 FACTS

9 FL.Invest.USA Inc. is a Florida corporation with headquarters in 10 Delaware. Its only significant asset is 240 acres of property, known 11 as Pine Meadows, and in Kern County, California. The debtor is owned 12 by Daisy Finance, Ltd., which, in turn, is owned by Vittorino Serri 13 and Lorenzo Serri. The debtor's only director is Mark Marinzoli. It 14 has no employees. Accounting and other support services are provided 15 by an independent contractor, Fiduciary Support Services, Inc., which 16 is owned by Marinzoli.

17 In 2007, the Serris approached creditors Aldo Nemni and Maria 18 Rosa Pizzorno-Nemni, who then resided in Italy, about investing in 19 Pine Meadows, which the Serris contended had upwards of 22 million 20 barrels of oil. The Serris represented that they were in discussions 21 with Caspian Oil Company to drill for the oil and promised that if 22 Caspian Oil did not do so, the debtor would. Over the next two years, 23 the Nemnis and their company, Miro America, LLC, invested more than 24 $2.4 million in the Pine Meadows project and, in exchange, were to 25 receive 10% of the debtor's stock and 10% of its oil royalties. The 26 stock was never issued, and the royalties were never paid.

27 In 2011, the Nemnis and Miro America brought suit against the 28 debtor in the Superior Court of California for Kern County. See Nemni

1 v. FL Invest USA, Inc., No. S-1500-CV-273755 (Cal. Super. Ct. May 19, 2 2011). Later that same year, the state court entered default
3 judgments against the debtor in favor of the Nemnis and Miro America
4 for approximately $3,400,000 and $538,000, respectively. The debtor 5 unsuccessfully attempted to set aside the judgments. Abstracts of 6 judgment were then recorded in Kern County.

7 In May 2012, the debtor entered into a lease agreement with 8 Golden Sun Energy. The terms of the lease provided Golden Sun Energy 9 the right to drill for oil on the property in exchange for a 20% 10 royalty to the debtor. Royalty payments from Golden Sun Energy to the 11 debtor have averaged between $5,000 and $6,000 per month. But the 12 debtor never remitted any of the funds from the royalty payments to 13 the Nemnis or Miro America. As a result, in July 2012, the Nemnis 14 obtained a writ of execution and recorded a notice of levy with the 15 Kern County Recorder.

16 In September 2012, the parties reached a settlement whereby the 17 debtor agreed to pay the Nemnis and Miro America $3 million in 18 installments over a four-month period. The debtor paid only the first 19 installment of $50,000 and then defaulted. In response, the Nemnis 20 sought the appointment of a receiver in state court to capture the oil 21 royalties.

22 PROCEDURAL HISTORY

23 In December 2012, two days after the state court ordered a 24 receiver appointed, the debtor filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy 25 protection in the District of Delaware. Schedules and statements have 26 been filed. The debtor's assets comprise Pine Meadows valued at $6.25
27 million, the Golden Sun Energy lease, and a Wells Fargo Bank checking 28 account containing $353.46. The debtor's only secured debts consist

1 of the debts owed to the Nemnis and Miro America, which together total
2 $3.9 million, plus post-judgment interest. Unsecured debts total 3 $202,258.92, of which $122,419.72 is owed to Fiduciary Support
4 Services, or its owner Marinzoli. Other unsecured creditors include 5 two of the debtor's former lawyers and Golden Sun Energy, whose claim 6 for $50,000 arises from a loan it made to the debtor used to pay a 7 prepetition retainer to O'Kelly Ernst & Bielli, LLC, the firm employed 8 as the debtor's counsel in this case.

9 The Nemnis, who now reside in California, and Miro America moved 10 to change the venue of the case to the Eastern District of California.
11 The debtor opposed the motion, but the Bankruptcy Court for the 12 District of Delaware granted it.

13 After the transfer of venue, the meeting of creditors was 14 conducted and monthly operating reports were filed.

15 The Nemnis and Miro America brought a motion for stay relief, 16 which the court denied. The U.S. Trustee then requested a single 17 asset real estate designation for the debtor's case. The court 18 granted that request over the objection of the debtor.

19 The debtor has not filed a plan or disclosure statement since the 20 case was filed nearly eight months ago. No other significant activity 21 has occurred in the case.

22 The Nemnis and Miro America have brought a motion seeking 23 dismissal of the debtor's case. The debtor has opposed the motion.

24 25 JURISDICTION

26 This court has jurisdiction. See 28 U.S.C. §§ 157, 1334; 11 27 U.S.C. § 1112; General Order No. 182 of the U.S. District Court for 28 the Eastern District of California. This is a core proceeding. See

1 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(A).

2 DISCUSSION

3 I. Lack of Good Faith in Filing Establishes Cause for Dismissal or 4 Conversion.

5 On request of a party in interest and after notice and a hearing, 6 the court shall convert a Chapter 11 case to Chapter 7 case or dismiss 7 it, "whichever is in the best interests of creditors and the estate," 8 for cause shown. 11 U.S.C. § 1112(b)(1). In deciding such motions, 9 the court must engage in a two-step analysis. See Rollex Corp. v.
10 Associated Materials, Inc. (In re Superior Siding & Window, Inc.), 14
11 F.3d 240, 242 (4th Cir. 1994). First, the court must ascertain 12 whether cause exists. Id. Second, if the court finds that cause 13 exists, it must decide whether dismissal or conversion best serves the 14 interests of creditors and the estate. Shulkin Hutton, Inc., P.S. v.
15 Treiger (In re Owens), 552 F.3d 958, 960-61 (9th Cir. 2009); Superior 16 Siding & Window, 14 F.3d at 242.

17 Lack of good faith in filing a Chapter 11 petition may constitute 18 cause. Marsch v. Marsch (In re Marsch), 36 F.3d 825, 828 (9th Cir.
19 1994) (per curiam). Such a finding should be made after consideration 20 of all of the facts and circumstances of the case. Id. "The test is 21 whether a debtor is attempting to unreasonably deter and harass 22 creditors or attempting to effect a speedy, efficient reorganization 23 on a feasible basis." Id. (citing Idaho Dep't of Lands v. Arnold (In 24 re Arnold), 806 F.2d 937, 939 (9th Cir. 1986)).

25 Furthermore, "[t]he term 'good faith' is somewhat misleading.
26 Though it suggests that the debtor's subjective intent is 27 determinative, this is not the case. Instead, the 'good faith' filing 28 requirement encompasses several, distinct equitable limitations that

1 courts have placed on Chapter 11 filings." Id. Courts have long 2 recognized that a Chapter 11 filing used to forum shop, delay, or 3 otherwise gain tactical advantage in pending litigation in a non-4 bankruptcy forum is a species of bad faith. See, e.g., In re SGL
5 Carbon Corp., 200 F.3d 154, 165-69 (3d Cir. 1999); St. Paul Self 6 Storage Ltd. P'ship v. Port Authority of St. Paul (In re St. Paul Self 7 Storage Ltd. P'ship), 185 B.R. 580, 584 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1995).

8       Once the movant establishes an issue as to the lack of good 9 faith, the debtor bears the burden of proving that the petition was 10 filed in good faith. Marshall v. Marshall (In re Marshall), --- F.3d 11 ---, No. 09-55573, 2013 WL 3242487, at *13 (9th Cir. June 28, 2013); 12 In re SGL Carbon Corp., 200 F.3d at 162 n.10. The quantum of proof is 13 preponderance of the evidence. In re Erkins, 253 B.R. 470, 474 14 (Bankr. D. Idaho 2000).

15       Here, the court finds that the debtor's filing of its Chapter 11 16 petition was a litigation tactic and, therefore, lacks good faith.
17 First, the timing of the filing suggests a lack of good faith. See In 18 re St. Paul Self Storage, 185 B.R. at 583 (considering the timing of a 19 filing and the unsuccessful progress of litigation as bearing on 20 debtor's improper intent in filing); see also In re Eighty S. Lake, 21 Inc., 63 B.R. 501, 509 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1986) (imposing sanctions for 22 bad faith Chapter 11 filing that hindered state court receiver), 23 aff'd, 81 B.R. 580 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 1987). The debtor's filing came 24 five years after the Nemnis' initial investment and one and a half 25 years after the commencement of litigation in state court. However, 26 it came only two days after a receiver was appointed in state court to 27 capture the debtor's oil royalties. From these events, the court 28 infers that the debtor's primary motive was avoidance of judicial 1 process and collection activities.

2         Second, the debtor engaged in forum shopping. See In re
3 Silberkraus, 253 B.R. 890, 905 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2000); In re Cardi
4 Ventures, Inc., 59 B.R. 18, 23 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1985). By filing a 5 Chapter 11 petition in this forum, the debtor gained a tactical 6 advantage by presumptively divesting the receiver of control of the 7 debtor's assets. 11 U.S.C. § 534(b)(1). Filing the petition in the 8 District of Delaware also constituted forum shopping. The parties 9 fought in state court, and the debtor lost, albeit by default. When 10 efforts to set aside the default judgments were not successful, the 11 debtor not only filed bankruptcy but did so in a jurisdiction far from 12 its creditors and with which it had only nominal contacts. The 13 bankruptcy court in Delaware found that the more appropriate venue was 14 the Eastern District of California.

15         Third, this is a two-party dispute. See In re Van Owen Car Wash,
16 Inc., 82 B.R. 671, 673 (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 1988); In re Serfass, 325
17 B.R. 901, 906 (Bankr. M.D. Fla. 2005) ("Generally, the courts do not 18 condone the use of Chapter 11 to resolve two-party disputes in the 19 bankruptcy court when such litigation is still pending in a non-20 bankruptcy forum prior to the commencement of the case."). The 21 debtor's aggregate debts are around $4.1 million, of which the Nemnis 22 and Miro America hold $3.9 million. The only other scheduled debts 23 comprise unsecured debts to the debtor's insiders or their affiliates, 24 debtor's former attorneys, and a loan to pay the retainer of its 25 Chapter 11 counsel.

26         Fourth, the debtor's actions before and after bankruptcy reveal 27 an ongoing intent to stall creditors, see In re Marsch, 36 F.3d at 28 828, while retaining the benefits of the enterprise. For example,

1 after receiving funds from the Nemnis and Miro America, the debtor
2 failed for over six years to perform its original agreement to issue 3 stock or pay royalties despite being sued and determined liable by 4 default judgment for its failure to perform. Another example is the 5 debtor's failure to uphold its renewed promise to pay under the 6 settlement with the Nemnis and Miro America, by which these creditors 7 reduced their claims in exchange for expedited payments.

8 Moreover, despite the passage of eight months since the petition 9 date, the debtor has made no appreciable effort to reorganize. No 10 plan or disclosure statement has been filed. And the debtor has 11 resisted the U.S. Trustee's motion to designate the case as a single 12 asset real estate case, which implicates the quick-trigger stay relief 13 provisions of 11 U.S.C. § 362(d)(3). In the meantime, the debtor has 14 received and kept oil royalties under its lease with Golden Sun 15 Energy.

16 Fifth, the debtor has not shown that reorganization is 17 forthcoming and feasible. See In re Marsch, 36 F.3d at 828. The 18 Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit recently observed that "the 19 most compelling grounds for denying a motion to dismiss grounded on 20 bad faith" is the existence of a confirmable plan because it 21 "essentially refutes a contention that the case is filed or prosecuted 22 in bad faith." In re Marshall, 2013 WL 3242487, at *14. Here, no 23 plan or disclosure statement has been filed. The period of 24 exclusivity has expired and was never extended. See 11 U.S.C.
25 § 1121(c). The debtor contended that it intends to reorganize around 26 a sale of 80% of the Pine Meadows property to a group of investors led 27 by Telibrick Hospitality Network, Inc. and offered a signed letter of 28 intent from Telibrick Hospitality. But the letter of intent is not a 1 firm commitment to proceed with the transaction, and the debtor, the 2 one bearing the burden of proof, offered no evidence that the buyer is 3 ready, willing, and able to complete the purchase. Without a more 4 certain commitment, the possible sale is insufficient evidence of a 5 feasible reorganization.

6 Based on the above circumstances, the court finds that the 7 Chapter 11 filing lacked good faith and that cause exists.

8 II. The Best Interests of Creditors and the Estate Favors Conversion.

9 If the court finds that cause exists, it must decide whether 10 dismissal or conversion best serves the interests of creditors and the 11 estate. Shulkin Hutton, 552 F.3d at 960-61; Superior Siding & Window, 12 14 F.3d at 242. The court finds conversion better serves such 13 interests.

14 First, the estate appears solvent. Assets total $6.25 million, 15 while debts total only $4.1 million. Thus, there appears to be 16 sufficient equity to pay all creditors in full. As a result, 17 creditors and the estate are better served by an expeditious, orderly 18 liquidation designed to maximize value.

19 Second, the dismissal of the bankruptcy case may further delay 20 creditors. The debtor has exhibited a history of delaying payment to 21 creditors and using process to creditors' detriment. And further 22 opportunities for debtor mischief exist. For example, the debtor 23 could file a second Chapter 11 petition. No filing bar has been 24 requested under 11 U.S.C. § 349(a). If the second filing occurred 25 within one year, it would give the debtor the benefit of the stay for 26 at least 30 additional days, see 11 U.S.C. § 362(c)(3), and may 27 protect property of the estate beyond such time, compare Rinard v.
28 Positive Invs., Inc. (In re Rinard), 451 B.R. 12, 20 (Bankr. C.D. Cal.

1 2011) (section 362(c)(3) stay terminates only as to debtor), with 2 Reswick v. Reswick (In re Reswick), 446 B.R. 362, 366-69 (B.A.P. 9th 3 Cir. 2011) (stay terminates in its entirety). A second filing would 4 also presumptively wrest control of estate property from the state-5 court-appointed receiver. See 11 U.S.C. § 543(b)(1),(d). As a 6 result, the court finds that conversion, and not dismissal, best 7 serves the interests of creditors.

8 CONCLUSION

9 For these reasons, the case will be converted to a case under 10 Chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code.
